Eich Athletics Handbook

Welcome Wildcats!!

Participation in interscholastic athletics is an important experience for many students. At Eich, we believe that athletics assists the student in developing respect for others, good sportsmanship, fitness and health skills, responsibility and sport skills. We recognize that the junior high school competition level is a learning experience. For some students, participation at the junior high level is the first step in what we hope is a long and rewarding athletic experience.

We stress teamwork, hard work and cooperation as the most important factors in developing a good team and a good program. We believe that junior high sports should offer the opportunity to build skills and help develop more specific skills needed for a given sport. We feel our goal is to be competitive within our league while we build skills and develop character.

We believe that at the junior high level athletes should not only build skills but also discover what true competition is all about. This includes all aspects of gracious victory as well as the grace and dignity of defeat. The team goals involve team success and all team members need to be willing to do what it takes to focus on the goals and be successful. Once an individual makes a team, he or she becomes a part of the team goals.

Eich participates as an active member of the Foothill Intermediate School Athletic League, (F.I.S.A.L.) The following schools are participating in F.I.S.A.L. for the current school year:

Students at lower grades in feeder elementary schools may participate as needed in these three sports. They must be approved by the athletic director, the league and are subject to all Eich rules.

Athletic Code and Eligibility

1. Student Athletes must maintain a 70% or above in a minimum of 4 classes!. Grade checks occur every 6 weeks. Any student who drops below 70% in any two classes will be removed from the team if this should occur. If this occurs at a mid way point in the trmester, the student shall have 5 days to bring the necessary grades up. During those 5 days the student is not eligible to play and if the grades do not come up, the student is no longer eligible and must turn in the uniform. There is no 5 day grace period at the end of the trimester.
2. Students must maintain 85 or more merits. Any student who drops below 85 merits is off the team until he or she follows all rules and requirements to return to 100 merits.It will be a coach’s discretion if an athlete may return to the team after reaching 100 merits again.
3. Students must be in attendance at school for a minimum of 3 periods on any given day in order to attend practice or a competition on that day.
4. Any student who is excused from physical education by a parent, doctor, or nurse may not participate in either practice or competition that same day.
5. Absences, tardies/ consequences, for missing practice are set by the coach.
6. Students representing Eich will conduct themselves in an appropriate and respectful manner. We will show respect on the bus, to the officials, and the opposing players, coaches, and parents.

7. As stated in rule 600, article 6, page 33 of the CIF RULES, no Eich athlete may participate in any league or team of the same sport during the season of that sport. There are no exceptions. If this rule is violated, the consequences are that the player is removed from the team, and probable team forfeiture of games, matches, or meets will occur.
This is not limited to but includes; volleyball, and club volleyball, pee wee football and school flag football, school basketball and AAU, school wrestling and club wrestling, and so on. A student may not even attend a practice or sit to observe a team other than the school team during the school season of the same sport.
8. There is a $50.00 voluntary contribution to participate on an Eich team which helps defray the costs of transportation, officials and uniforms, coaches.
9. Students are expected to ride the bus to and from all contests. Only by written signature from the parent will a student be released to travel home from an away game with a parent. A parent may not sign out another student.
10. Each student shall receive an Eich uniform for the duration of the season. The student is responsible for the maintenance of the uniform- wash in cold water and cool dry. The uniform must be turned in at the conclusion of the season. Loss or destruction of the uniform will result in a financial charge to the student's parents. Athletic uniforms are not to be worn at any time outside of the game setting. Additionally, some sports have an uniform fee and the student in that case owns the shirt after the season.
11. All school rules apply.

Philosophy and Participation

At Eich we acknowledge that the league, F.I.S.A.L. is interscholastic, not intramural. The participating schools are competing in the various sports through -out the school year. Tryouts for each sport are held 3 weeks prior to the first game and practices begin 2 weeks prior to the first game. In the school sports where the interest is greater than the number of spots available on a team, cuts may be necessary. When cutting players is necessary, Eich coaches are committed to making the process as painless as possible. Each season we offer a non cut sport so that all students wishing to be involved in a school sport have that opportunity.

In each sport, we select a 7th grade team as well as an 8th grade team. No player at Eich will play other than his or her own grade level. Within the league a player is eligible only two years, once as a 7th grader and once as an 8th grader. We permit 6th graders from feeder schools to participate in wrestling, track and cross country.

The Eich coaches recognize that players need to have game time as part of the learning and growth process. Coaches will attempt to have all players, if all participation criteria have been met, to participate in each game or meet to some degree. There is no guarantee of equal playing time for all players. There are many factors that go into a coach's decision with regard to playing time. It should be understood by all players that playing time is earned, not a privilege or a guarantee. If a player or a parent has some questions regarding game time, it should be discussed with the coach in private and not immediately after a game. A player or a parent should make an appointment to come see the coach at an appropriate time.

Communication

Each coach for each sport will hold a parent / athlete meeting prior to the season to discuss all specifics of the season. Parents and athletes will have the opportunity to meet the coach(es) and ask any questions they may have. No student will be allowed to continue to participate until the parent and coach have made the necessary contact. We encourage all parents to be active fans, encouraging all players from the team in their endeavors to become better athletes. Parents are not to make any complaining comments to the referees at any time, regardless of the situation. Parents may register their concerns with the Athletic Director the following day. Coaches should not have to put their energy into controlling the negative comments from parents.

Parents, coaches and students working together can help W.T. Eich keep up the tradition of a great athletic competitor. We strive to be recognized for excellence and great character both off and on the fields of competition.

Contract for Participation with Eich Intermediate School Athletic Teams

It is understood that, while the student is participating on an Eich team, during that same season he / she cannot participate in any other league of the same sport at the same time. There are no exceptions to this rule. We have read the Eich Athlete Sports Handbook and by our signatures we agree to uphold the information and display good sportsmanship toward all involved.

Raising a Generation of Nice Parents

Years ago, watching a youth game was fairly simple. Parents would bring their kids to a game, hang around and chitchat with other parents while watching the game. When the game ended, the kids would hop back into their parents' cars and everybody would head to the ice cream store.

Unfortunately, today, life at games is not free of problems. And, sadly, all too often it is the parents, coaches, or other adults, not the kids, who are creating some of the problems and the concerns that pop up. Many of our Eich parents are amazing people and already model fabulous sideline behavior at games. But too many adults are losing perspective not only of what is important at youth games but also of appropriate sideline and court behavior. Here is a quick refresher on what we at Eich expect to see from our parents.

1) Praise for Winning, Praise for Losing

Remember that sports at this level are part of a larger journey, not a destination. Remind your child that it is the effort and the hard work that counts. We know that kids want to win, that is a given. But we also know that for every winning team there is going to be a losing team. Be prepared to cushion your child's disappointment after a loss by complimenting the hard work and effort that was put forth. Be prepared to celebrate a victory with your child while also recognizing the hard work and effort put forth by the losing team. We need to model excited and humble winnings and courageous, character building losses.

2) Model Sportsmanship

Kids will copy adult behavior. If parents are not good sports at games, kids will not be either. If a parent sets a pattern of being a menace and yelling and screaming at refs, coaches, scorekeepers, or players, the kids will begin to respond in the same manner.

3) Treat Officials with Respect

Do not hesitate to compliment a ref, umpire or official. These individuals are people, they have families and they generally care about the sport and the kids and the development of the game. Most refs, scorekeepers or officials are not in it for the money. They appreciate the acknowledgement of their efforts by the parents and the fans. They are not perfect but are trying to call a good, fair, safe game to the best of their ability. If we remember they are people, not objects, it will be a much better experience.

4) Treat Coaches with Respect

It is nice to give the coach a thank you or a pat on the back after a game, whether a win or a loss. Coaches are people who want to help grow your child in the sport and want to see improvement and character building. They are people with families and are not in it for the money. They give a lot of their own time and energy to helping your child. You as a parent will often not see things the way the coach sees them and that needs to just be accepted. They are not perfect and will have oversights and sometimes make poor decisions. A kind word or thank you will go a long way, especially after a loss. Coaches sometimes have to leave coaching for a number of reasons: relocating, college, family obligations, job change, new baby and many more life reasons. Rarely does a coach choose to leave coaching because they are tired of kids. But sadly, many a coach has also left coaching for the simple reason they are tired of dealing with parents.

5) Know when to Hold 'em. know when to Fold 'em

Learn when to talk to a coach and when to wait. Do not attempt a conversation or even an email when you are upset about something. Make an appointment with the coach to allow for a cooling off time. You may not think that you need that but everyone involved with indeed benefit. In addition, know the situation and facts before you address your concerns. You may have only part of the picture.

Encourage your athlete to address a coach personally if they have a question or concern. This is an important life skill. Coaches love to see athletes take ownership for their lives.

6) Mom always said, "If you can't say something nice. don't talk at all!"

Use your voice at games to shout praise and encouragement!! There is no room at a game for snide, rude, derogatory, sarcastic comments toward anyone at a kid's game. Don't be the one on the sidelines criticizing and being negative about things going on. If you have concerns, find the proper way and proper time to address the concerns. Nothing ever got better with negative comments and unhealthy criticism. If you hear another parent behaving in such a way, ask them to address their concerns properly and to stop the sideline bickering.
